Measure C is coming to town!

Beginning this spring, the City of Santa Barbara will begin an extensive rehabilitation and maintenance program for City streets funded by Measure C. The work will be performed by City Streets crews and contractors. The initial program will be focusing on heavily used streets, primarily “arterials” and “collector” streets. “Collector” streets provide access to local residential areas, and connect to “arterial” streets - which provide access to freeways, expressways, and urban centers.

Along with paving projects, the City will be installing new access ramps to provide better access to our disabled community members. We will also be updating traffic signal infrastructure, storm drain systems, and other critical infrastructure needs.

What does this mean to the Community?

Measure C provides ongoing funding for Streets Infrastructure, as well as other critical infrastructure needs throughout the City. Everyone likes driving on a newly paved road, but most people do not like the inconvenience of major construction work on our heavily used streets. The City will be providing advanced public notification of road construction so that you can plan for alternative routes. We ask for your patience - each paving project is relatively short, usually lasting no more the a few days, and the result is a new, safer, and smoother road.
